OUR FLEET IS READY FOR YOU

Everyone calls themselves industry experts, but what does that mean?

We all know the trucking industry is constantly changing. Just because a company has been around a long time, doesn't mean they are continually learning about our industry.

Hawkeye maintains a commitment to employing highly-trained professionals. Not only do we have decades of experience, we continually train on industry best practices and regulations, food safety, hours of service, safety, logistics technology, and customer service. Hawkeye team members also study the unique aspects of your business in order to deliver individualized service.

You can rely on our employees to be knowledgeable about new trends, remain actively involved in the industry and provide guidance required to assist you with their business goals.
